

CAPA CONFERENCE
NOVEMBER 24, 2009
CIVIC CENTRE
OTTAWA

The 2009 CAPA Annual Conference is fast approaching. This year's conference will be held at the site of last year's conference - the Civic Centre, Lansdowne Park, on Bank Street, in Ottawa on Tuesday, November 24th.

The agenda is diverse and topical.

🍁 There will be keynote speeches from Suzanne Legault, the Interim Information Commissioner of Canada and from Chantal Bernier, the Assistant Privacy Commissioner of Canada.

🍁 Gary Dickson, the Information and Privacy Commissioner of Saskatchewan will speak on a topic close to all of our hearts, "Competing Demands and Divided Loyalties, Difficulties of the ATIP Professional."

🍁 Our annual summary of important court decisions from the past year on access and privacy issues from Canada, the U.S.A. and around the world.

🍁 Perennial favourite, Professor Val Steeves will be speaking on "Democracy version 2.1: How Canadian Judges Talk About Privacy, Citizenship and Democracy in the Context of Anti-Terrorism Legislation"

🍁 Also invited is Frank Work, Information and Privacy Commissioner of Alberta.

We think that this is a conference you won't want to miss. Similar private-sector conferences cost at least $600.00. This year's conference will cost only $250.00 which will include opening refreshments, breaks, a hot, sit-down meal for lunch and the wine and cheese reception.

You will find the registration form elsewhere in this package. We are looking forward to seeing you at the conference.

Please note that the CAPA office will be closed from October 16th through the 23rd. All registrations that come in by fax or mail during that period will be confirmed the following week. The conference agenda with speaker/panel times will be posted on the CAPA website (www.capa.ca) as soon as it is finalized. All conference materials can also be found on the website in printable pdf.

Registrations will not be processed without either credit card information, a cheque or billing information included with the registration form. If you put yourself, it will be assumed that you are paying yourself.
